In the week where it has been announced that the recorded music industry in the UK has had its best year since Britpop, John looks at Record Store Day 2018 from the point of view of a Gonzo reader, Alan does some extraordinary things in Lithuania, Doug looks at an unfairly overlooked Genesis album, and Jon mutters on about Carter the Unstoppable Sex Machine, and global reapolitik.
Subscribe to Gonzo Weekly
http://eepurl.com/r-VTD
Subscribe to Gonzo Daily
http://eepurl.com/OvPez
Gonzo Facebook Group
https://www.facebook.com/groups/287744711294595/
Gonzo Weekly on Twitter
https://twitter.com/gonzoweekly
Gonzo Multimedia (UK)
http://www.gonzomultimedia.co.uk/
Gonzo Multimedia (USA)
http://www.gonzomultimedia.com/
The Three Commandments of Gonzo Weekly:

1. Art is as important as science and more important than money

2. There is life after (beyond and before) Pop Idol

3. Music can and sometimes does change the world

If you think those three ideas are stupid then you should probably give up reading this magazine now. Otherwise... enjoy
Dear friends,

Welcome to another issue of this increasingly peculiar little magazine. On a number of occasions I have recounted the story of how my old friend, Rob Ayling (who was only just a school leaver when I first met him, but is now MD of Gonzo Multimedia, one of the most interesting media companies in the world), asked me to start a record company newsletter. Looking a gift horse in the mouth, as I so often do, I instead mooted the idea of doing a weekly magazine. To my immense pleasure, Rob agreed, and therefore the rod for my own back which you are currently reading, was hammered firmly into place over five years ago.

I always remember where I was on a specific day in February, 1991, and an article in last week's issue brought that memory spiralling back into the front of my conscience. It was Jeremy's account of a gig by Ferocious Dog that did it for me, or rather it was one of the photographs that accompanied the article. Because there, as large as life, was a bloke called Les Carter, whom I first met back in the days when he was more unusually named as 'Fruitbat'. He was half of a duo named Carter the Unstoppable Sex Machine, who were, at the time, the blue-eyed boys of British rock journalism.

I had first heard of them during the summer of 1989, at a notorious rock festival in Cornwall, called the Treworgey Tree.
Fayre, which has gone down in history as being one of the last, one of the biggest, and one of the most unruly events in the historical pantheon of the alternative rock festival movement. If I remember rightly, Carter the Unstoppable Sex Machine played on the Saturday afternoon, and although I would like to rewrite history and say how much I enjoyed them - I thought they were fucking terrible. Then, during 1990, whilst on tour with Steve Harley and Cockney Rebel, one of the loose band of vagabonds with whom we travelled (a young lady called 'Pebbles') played me their debut album 101 Damnations and I began to see what the fuss was all about. And by February 1991, with their second album 30 Something, due to be released in a few days time, I was not only a fan, but together with my first wife, and another two members of my motley gang of vagabonds - I found myself in Brixton, in a flat which was the home of the aforementioned Leslie George Carter.

Les Carter had played in a number of bands during the late 1970s, before teaming up with James Robert Morrison at the end of 1980. Morrison was, and is, known to all and sundry as 'Jim Bob' because he says that he doesn’t want to be confused with a dead, fat, crap, poet. The two of them formed a band called Jamie Wednesday, which muddled along for some seven years, releasing two EPs, but remaining willfully obscure. When the band imploded in 1987, Jim Bob and Fruitbat stuck together and formed Carter the Unstoppable Sex Machine [Carter USM], in which they both played guitar and sang to a backing track produced by drum machines and sequencers. Over the next year or so, I saw the band on several occasions and interviewed them twice, and they have always occupied a very soft spot in my memory. Fruitbat, who - apparently - got the name because he has very large ears, although they always looked perfectly normal sized to me, is now in the aforementioned Ferocious Dog, and the photograph of him that we reproduced in the last issue, brought the afternoon that I spent with the two of them in that tidy, and remarkably ordinary, Brixton flat, back to the centre stage of my emotions.

Why?

It is down to one thing that Fruitbat said during our conversation. Because, that afternoon in February 1991 was no ordinary afternoon. The night before, the invasion of Kuwait, by a coalition army largely consisting of British and American troops, had crossed the border from Saudi Arabia.

Ok, in the interests of what our trans-Atlantic chums call 'full disclosure', all this was twenty seven years ago, and my arteries have hardened considerably in those years. I cannot remember now whether the night before meeting Carter USM in Fruitbat's flat was the time that the land invasion of Kuwait took place, or whether it was the night that naval and airforce attacks upon Iraqi personnel started to take place. I suspect that it was the latter, in which case all of this happened in mid-January, rather than in early February, but it doesn't really matter because the thing that sticks in my mind after all this time is Fruitbat telling how shocked he had been to hear one of the pundits on the BBC describing the conflict as "the first fully televised war in history". We were all somewhat shellshocked by the events that were unfolding on the world stage; and one should remember that it had only been a couple of years since the end of the Cold War, and the spectre of us all ending our lives in a nuclear holocaust had not gone away. But, even so, the quote relayed to us by Fruitbat was a shocking one.

Nearly thirty years on, one probably wouldn't have batted an eyelid (the lexilink between Les Carter and eyelids was not an intentional one). Because in the past (nearly) three decades, the United Kingdom seems to have been at war pretty consistently. And all of these wars (even if they weren't officially designated as such) have largely taken place in the bright neon gaze of the world's media.

And guess what, kiddies? It all looks like it's quite likely to kick off again. As I sit here, on Tuesday morning, dictating this deathless prose to my beloved step-amanuensis Olivia, the future seems more uncertain than ever. The Russian authorities have announced that an investigation team from the Organisation for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons will be allowed to visit the town of Douma on Wednesday (tomorrow, as I write; three days ago, as you read) and - to a cynical old bastard like me - it would seem to me that it would be highly unlikely for this visit to be allowed if there was any real hope of the investigation team finding anything sinister. This century has already seen one pointless, expensive and destructive war in the middle east based on totally unsatisfactory intelligence, and - again, from where I'm sitting - I have a sneaking suspicion that history is about to repeat itself.

Fruitbat probably doesn't remember me, nor would I expect him to. But I wonder if he remembers our conversation, and realises how prescient he was, and how the thing that he was so shocked about has so quickly and easily become the norm.

For fuck's sake, world leaders. Listen to the people, and give peace a chance.

Hare bol,
Jon Downes

THE GONZO WEEKLY
all the gonzo news that’s fit to print
ISSN 2516-1946

This is quite simply the best magazine you will ever find that is edited by a mad bloke (and his small orange cat), and produced from a tumbledown potato shed on the outskirts of a tiny village that nobody’s heard of in North Devon. The fact that it is published with Gonzo Multimedia - probably the grooviest record company in the known universe - is merely an added bonus.

NAMING THOSE RESPONSIBLE

This issue was put together by me and Captain Frunobulax the Magnificent, (who is, in case you didn't know, an insane orange kitten on the verge of adulthood) ably assisted by:

Corinna Downes,
(Sub Editor, and my lovely wife)

Graham Inglis,
(Columnist, Staff writer, Hawkwind nut)

Douglas Harr,
(Features writer, columnist)

Bart Lancia,
(My favourite roving reporter)

Thom the World Poet,
(Bard in residence)

C.J.Stone,
(Columnist, commentator and all round good egg)

John Brodie-Good
(Staff writer)

Jeremy Smith
(Staff Writer)

Alan Dearling,
(Staff writer)

Richard Foreman
(Staff Writer)

Mr Biffo
(Columnist)

Kev Rowland
(columnist)

Richard Freeman,
(Scary stuff)

Dave McMann,
(Sorely missed)

Orrin Hare,
(Sybarite and literary bon viveur)

Mark Raines,
(Cartoonist)

Davey Curtis,
(tales from the north)

Jon Pertwee
(Pop Culture memorabilia)

Dean Phillips
(The House Wally)

Rob Ayling
(The Grande Fromage, of whom we are all in awe)

and Peter McAdam
(McDada in residence)

This is the nearest that you are ever going to get to a posh weekend colour supplement from the Gonzo Daily team. Each week we shall go through the best bits of the week before, and if there aren't any we shall make some up, or simply make our excuses and leave (you can tell the editor once did contract work at the News of the World can't ya?)

This weekly magazine is free, and will remain so. It is published by Gonzo Multimedia in conjunction with CFZ Publications, or is it the other way round? We’re actually not that sure. Contact us with bribes and free stuff:

Jonathan Downes,
Editor, Gonzo Daily (Music and More)
Editor, Gonzo Weekly magazine
The Centre for Fortean Zoology,
Myrtle Cottage,
Woolfardisworthy,
Bideford, North Devon
EX39 5QR

Telephone 01237 431413
Fax +44 (0)7006-074-925

Contact us with bribes and free stuff:

Email jon@eclipse.co.uk
Now is an even better time than usual to subscribe because, not only is it FREE (yes, Oxford English Dictionary free, not yer usual publisher free which means that we sell all the mailing list emails that we garner to a company trying to flog Viagra and/or Double Glazing).

No this is FREE as in Gratis. Not a Sausage. But I digress. So make an old hippy a happy chappy and SUBSCRIBE TODAY
In this lavishly illustrated celebration of classic and progressive rock bands of the 1970s, author Doug Harr shares his vivid memories of the mind-altering rock spectacles he witnessed in his hometown of Los Angeles—the City of Angels—at the genesis of a new art form. Get a front-row seat at three-dozen spectacular concerts and the albums that spawned them. Revisit these legendary records and concerts along with reviews of the best video documentaries of the era, each hand-illuminated by a hand-picked collection of brilliant images—most never-before-seen—by the era’s best rock photographers. This 396-page hardcover book is nearly the size of an LP cover and features over 600 images. Foreword by Armando Gallo.

Available at Amazon and GonzoMultimedia.com
Preorder begins December 2016: wide release January 2017

Rockin’ the City of Angels features the work of some of the rock era’s greatest photographers, including Richard E. Aaron, Jørgen Angel, Fin Costello, Ian Dickson, Armando Gallo, Stacey Katsis, Terry O’Neill, Neal Preston, Michael Putland, Jim Summara, Lisa Tanner, Brian Weiner, Neil Zlowzower and more!
CORKY'S CORKER FOR RECORD STORE DAY: Known as "the supergroup that never was," Corky Laing's POMPEII recorded "The Secret Sessions" being finally released tomorrow for Record Store Day, between 1976 and 1978 after a re-introduction to old friend Ian Hunter via Steve Wax of Elektra/Asylum. Laing recalls: "The late '70s was a turbulent time as the musical taste went through a generational change.

Punk was just beginning to surface in the rock landscape. It replaced the increasingly complacent era of glam and classic rock with a new confrontational and rebellious attitude; Bands like MOUNTAIN and MOTT THE HOOPLE were becoming oldsters. In this environment, my record company Elektra/Asylum was preparing to bail on me, but before doing so, they asked if I wanted to form a so called 'supergroup.' I had no choice, and so began the journey into The Secret Sessions." Steve Wax, the president of Elektra/Asylum, hooked me up with an old mate, Ian Hunter, to begin the work.

Bob Ezrin was brought in to produce and together we proceeded to invite our famous friends to the Briarcliff Studios in Westchester, New York to see if we could put something interesting together."

Before long, Laing and Ezrin had assembled a cast that included FREE's Andy Fraser, the ALICE COOPER BAND's Steve Hunter, Lee Michaels and...
A host of independent music festivals have committed to cutting down on plastic waste. The Association of Independent Festivals (AIF) have teamed up with over 60 festivals for its new ‘Drastic On Plastic’ campaign. The campaign sees the festivals involved promising to at least ban plastic straws from their sites this year as part of the ‘Final Straw’ initiative, with the aim of eliminating all single-use plastic by 2021.

Among the festivals to take the pledge include Bestival, Boomtown Fair, Boardmasters, Field Day, Festival No 6, Kendall Calling, Liverpool Sound City, SWN Festival, Tramlines, Truck, Y-Not and many more.

http://www.blabbermouth.net/news/pompeii-the-supergroup-that-never-was-to-release-long-lost-album-the-secret-sessions-on-record-store-day/
WHO GONZO? WHY GONZO? WHAT GONZO?

What? You don't know who Hunter Thompson is/was/might have been/will be? Without Hunter Thompson there would be no Gonzo Multimedia. It would have been completely different and that would have been an unforgivable pity. So here is:

- A potted history of his life and works
- Rob Ayling explains why he called his company 'Gonzo'

C.J. Stone suggested that as well as explaining Gonzo to those wot don't understand, we should do a weekly quote from the man himself...

“Let us toast to animal pleasures, to escapism, to rain on the roof and instant coffee, to unemployment insurance and library cards, to absinthe and good-hearted landlords, to music and warm bodies and contraceptives... and to the "good life", whatever it is and wherever it happens to be.”

Hunter S. Thompson

THIS CHARMING BAG: Following the reaction to a recent controversial interview by Morrissey, hundreds rushed online to purchase merchandise urging him to shut up. This week, the former Smiths turned solo star made headlines in a divisive interview in which he discussed accusations of racism, referred to Hitler as 'left wing' and said that London Mayor Sadiq Khan “can not talk properly".

So strong was the reaction, that Manchester's Verity Longley re-started production on tote bags baring the message “Shut up, Morrissey" after they sold out last year. The 32-year-old initially designed the bags after hearing The Smiths being played too loudly from...
My favourite roving reporter this week sent me an interesting piece about the timely return of a band of old proggy favourites:

"Kino have announced that they’ll release their first album in 13 years on March 23.

Titled Radio Voltaire, it’ll launch via InsideOut Music and sees a reunion for It Bites and Frost* vocalist and guitarist John Mitchell, Marillion bassist Pete Trewavas and It Bites’ keyboardist John Beck. They’ll be joined by Frost* drummer Craig Blundell.

It’ll be the band’s first material since 2005’s Picture, which was reissued on vinyl for the first time in November last year.

Mitchell says: “We actually began the writing process in late August. Pete had a few tunes and so did I, and we went from there.”

a festival near her house, but was encouraged to bring them back after being inundated with messages this week.

The former Smiths frontman was speaking in an interview via his new website Morrissey Central, in which he discussed preferring his solo work to his former band, his battle against animal cruelty, a past court case with NME, and how accusations of racism “can’t penetrate or illuminate” the intended nature of his often controversial comments.

STING IN THE TAIL: Sting has responded to the debate about cultural appropriation in music, describing the phrase as “such an ugly term”.

The former Police frontman has teamed up with Shaggy for a new reggae record, which NME recently described as a “cheery abomination of an album”.

Artists such as Bruno Mars have recently come under fire from some critics for alleged cultural appropriation. Asked about this, Sting told the BBC: “It’s such an ugly term.”

He added: “For me, reggae is something I respect and value, and take seriously. It’s something I’ve learned from.”

“I owe a great deal to the whole reggae bass community. My spiritual, musical mentor was Bob Marley – who I knew – and I really feel that I’m doing something that feels authentic to me.”

NEAT NEAT ER NEAT: British punk rock icons The Damned are on course to enter the UK album chart in the top 10 for the first time in their 41 year career. Their Visconti produced album ‘Evil Spirits’ is actually sitting in the Top 5 in today’s midweek numbers. Tour tickets.

Despite scoring numerous chart-topping singles,' their highest charting album, ‘Phantasmagoria’ in 1985, just missed the top ten spot and peaked at number 11. History is in the making this week, however, with the Friday the 13th release of the critically-acclaimed ‘Evil Spirits’, the band’s first full album release in ten years, as its mid-week sales show it racing into the top ten.

“It hasn’t really sunk in yet,” laughs frontman Dave Vanian. “But it feels great to finally get there as it’s been a long time coming. We’ve had lots of top ten singles but never an album. Even when ‘Eloise’ was a big hit we were pipped to the number one spot by a novelty song by (British comedy actor and singer) Su Pollard! This time we’ve had Kylie and the Manics to compete with. A huge thanks to the fans, of course, without whom this record would never have been made. It feels amazing to finally get it out there.”

MONEY MAKES THE WORLD GO ROUND: Record labels association the BPI today publishes its annual yearbook: All About The Music 2018 – with the news that UK record company trade income (revenues generated through sales and streams across all music formats combined with earnings from ‘sync’) rose by 10.6 per cent in 2017 to stand at £839.4 million.

This represents the fastest rate of growth since the height of Britpop in 1995, when revenues increased by 10.7 per cent. However, it should be noted that total income remains nearly one third lower than the peak year of 2001, when it topped £1.2 billion. The increase in 2017 was driven by a 9.5 per cent leap in music consumption, which the BPI reported earlier this year.

ANOTHER BRICK: Legendary Pink Floyd drummer Nick Mason has formed a new supergroup, named Nick Mason’s Saucerful Of Secrets.

Taking their name from Pink Floyd’s second studio album, which came out in 1968, Saucerful Of Secrets will perform early Pink Floyd material at four intimate shows in London next month.

The five-piece also features Gary Kemp of Spandau Ballet, former Pink Floyd bassist Guy Pratt, The Blockheads guitarist Lee Harris, and music producer and composer Dom Beken.

It is both sad and shameful that when night falls and the setts of southern England stir, their gentle folk will be needlessly slaughtered. That in spite of science and public will, the wrath of ignorance will further bloody and bleed our countryside of its riches of life. That brutalist thugs, liars and frauds will destroy our wildlife and dishonour our nation's reputation as conservationists and animal lovers. I feel sick, sad, disempowered, betrayed, angry and crushed by the corruption of all that I know as right.

- Chris Packham
THE LAST WEEK AT GONZO DAILY

Sunday
Monday
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Friday
Saturday

IF YOU ARE NOT A PART OF THE SOLUTION YOU ARE A PART OF THE PROBLEM.

ELDRIDGE CLEAVER

Two types of people visit rhino in the wild

The strong and courageous take a camera
The weak and cowardly take a gun

What sort of person are you?

Celebrate wildlife on World Wildlife Day don’t shoot it.
Portobello Shuffle CDs still at special low price of £5.00 each, 1 x CD inc. p&p = UK £6.80; Mainland Europe £8.90; USA £9.95; Rest of the World, contact Rich Deakin for postage price: arsydeedee@yahoo.co.uk
"If you don't want your tax dollars to help the poor, then stop saying you want a country based on Christian values, because you don't."

Jimmy Carter

Trying to pick my favorite politician is like trying to decide which STD is just right for me.

sourcecards.com
Each week Richard Freeman: world famous cryptozoologist, explorer, author, and one of the most peculiar people I know picks a suitably off story from the world’s press.

Gonzo Web Radio started off as a medium by which interviews and radio programmes about the various acts covered by Gonzo Multimedia could be broadcast to an eagerly attentive world.

But over the past few years, it has become more than that. We now host regular weekly shows by Neil Nixon, a lecturer in professional writing at North West Kent College who uses his weekly radio show, Strange Fruit, as a learning experience for his students on the Foundation Course. I’ve known Neil for years, and he approached me with the idea of syndicating his show.

I agreed, and then the floodgates opened. We have regular weekly shows from Tim and Jaki on their submarine, and from the mysterious M Destiny on the other side of the pond with Friday Night Progressive. We also have a regular visit to the world of the Canterbury Scene courtesy of our friend Matthew Watkins. There are several other shows in the wings, waiting to join us, so stay glued to your seats boys and girls, your life is never going to be the same again!
Bye Daddy! I'm leaving for my date tonight!

Hmph... You be careful, those boys only care about one thing.

Sex?

No...

Prog

ME TRYING TO FIND GIRLS IN A PROG CONCERT
Strange Fruit is a unique two-hour radio show exploring the world of underground, strange and generally neglected music. All shows are themed and all shows set out to give the most hardened of sound-hounds some new delight to sample.

The show is also unique in providing homework for undergraduate students on North West Kent College’s Foundation Degree in Professional Writing (who dig up many of the odd facts featured in the links between tracks).

Neil Nixon, the founder and presenter of the show has released a book about rare albums for Gonzo Multimedia.

The show is broadcast on Miskin Radio every Sunday from 10-00-midnight.
I first came across Friday Night Progressive totally by accident, but I soon found myself beguiled by the style and taste of presenter M Destiny who presents a weekly two-hour show showcasing all sorts of progressive music that you are unlikely to hear anywhere else. This is surely a man after my own heart. I also very much approve of the way that it is the hub of a whole community of artists, musicians, and collaborators. I hope that you enjoy them as much as I do. Welcome aboard, chaps.

Hello, I am M Destiny host of Friday Night Progressive. You will find it to be an incredible independent internet broadcast show. But it’s more than that. We tend to boast that the musicians played on FNP are above the status quo. This includes the multi-instrumentalist and the educated musician. We tend to shy away from computer generated creations and rely on talent using musical instruments and steer this talent for purposes of sheer inspirational indulgence. It is only in the FNP chat room where you will find the most talented musicians packed at one time into such an honored space.
AND LOOK WHAT MACK HAS FOR YOU THIS WEEK

LOIS LANE RETURNS In a special re-broadcast, Mack, Juan-Juan and Commander Cobra talk to Rob Beckhusen about Russia’s Doomsday Bomb. Cindy Bailey Dove on the coming of Amazon’s enormous Zeppelins. Ghostly screams reported near the Mystery Airport. Switch on a new Mothman movie. Cobra on billionaires and UFOs. Lois Lane picks the first five winners in the “Wingman 18 -- Battle for America” free book giveaway.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UJ00-j0un6E
Sax Man, directed by Joe Siebert, premiered at the 2014 Cleveland International Film Festival.

In July 2013, the Cleveland City Council passed the Street Performers Ordinance, also known as the Sax Man Legislation, which explicitly allows "acting, singing, playing musical instruments, pantomime, juggling, magic, dancing, reciting and clowning" on Cleveland streets for money. Days later, Reedus played a reunion concert with his former band Sly, Slick and Wicked at the Cleveland House of Blues, where Cimperman presented him with the legislation.

Reedus died on April 16th, at the age of 65.

Deborah Coleman (1956 – 2018)

Coleman was an American blues musician. Coleman won the Orville Gibson Award for "Best Blues Guitarist, Female" in 2001, and was nominated for a W.C. Handy Blues Music Award nine times.

Coleman came from a music-loving military family, and started learning the guitar when she was 8. She played at the top music venues such as North Atlantic Blues Festival, Waterfront Blues Festival, the Monterey Jazz Festival, Ann Arbor Blues and Jazz Festival, Sarasota Blues Festival, the San Francisco Blues Festival and the Fountain Blues Festival.

Coleman’s Blind Pig debut, I Can’t Lose (1997), was

THOSE WE HAVE LOST
Arthur William Bell III
(1945 – 2018)

Bell was an American broadcaster and author. He was the founder and the original host of the paranormal-themed radio program Coast to Coast AM, which is syndicated on hundreds of radio stations in the United States and Canada. He also created and hosted its companion show Dreamland.

Bell hosted classic episodes of Coast to Coast AM that can be heard in some radio markets on Saturday nights under the name Somewhere in Time.

He started a new nightly show, Art Bell's Dark Matter, which began on September 16th, 2013, but ended six weeks later, on November 4, 2013. Bell cited his decision to end the program due to technological problems and a disagreement with Sirius XM over the show’s distribution.

On July 20, 2015, he returned to radio with a new show Midnight in the Desert, which was available online via TuneIn as well as some terrestrial radio stations.

Bell was the founder and original owner of Pahrump-based radio station KNYE 95.1 FM; his broadcast studio and transmitter were located near his home in Pahrump, where he also hosted Coast to Coast AM. Bell died April 13th, aged 72, from chronic obstructive pulmonary disease.

Irwin Gage
(1939 – 2018)

Gage was an American pianist, specializing in accompanying Lieder.

Gage studied piano, musicology and literature at the University of Michigan and Yale, and later with Erik Werba at the Vienna Music Academy. He performed as a soloist, but above all was a collaborator with singers such as Elly Ameling, Arleen Auger, Walter Berry, and Brigitte Fassbaender.

In 1970, he planned and accompanied an entire series of Lieder recitals at the Vienna Konzerthaus. Gage gave master classes in Europe, Japan and the USA.

He was a consultant and artistic director of concert series at various houses, including the Cologne Philharmonic. He sat on many juries for singing, song duo, chamber music and solo piano at international music competitions.

Gage died on April 12th, after a long period of physical impairment and illness. He was 78.

Coleman died on April 12th, aged 61, from complications brought on by bronchitis and pneumonia.

THOSE WE HAVE LOST
Randy Lynn Scruggs (1953 – 2018)

Scruggs was a music producer, songwriter and guitarist. He had his first recording at the age of 13. He was the middle son of Earl Scruggs.

As a songwriter, Scruggs's credits include "We Danced Anyway", "Love Don't Care (Whose Heart It Breaks)", "Love Has No Right", "Don't Make It Easy for Me", "Chance of Lovin' You", and "Angel in Disguise".

Scruggs worked with many artists, including Michael Card, The Talbot Brothers, Waylon Jennings, George Strait and Emmylou Harris. His career began in 1970 with the release of “All the Way Home”, a collaboration with his older brother Gary. Scruggs recorded his debut solo LP, Crown of Jewels, in 1998. He played the electric bass on John Hartford's 1972 album Aereo-Plain.

Scruggs died after a short illness on April 17th, at the age of 64.

Barbara Bush (née Pierce) (1925 – 2018)

Bush was the wife of George H. W. Bush, the 41st President of the United States, and served as the First Lady of the United States from 1989 to 1993. She served as the Second Lady of the United States from 1981 to 1989. She was the mother of George W. Bush, the 43rd President, and Jeb Bush, the 43rd Governor of Florida.

When Bush was First Lady of the United States, she worked to advance the cause of universal literacy and founded the Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy.

She died on April 17th, aged 92, from complications from COPD.
Cup held in Spain. The film is narrated by Sean Connery and the score was written by Rick Wakeman. It tells the story of the 1982 FIFA World Cup which was won by Italy who beat West Germany in the final. It also highlights New Zealand - who played the most games in order to qualify - and Cameroon, a rising African force.

Richard Christopher "Rick" Wakeman (born 18 May 1949) is a legendary English keyboardist, songwriter, television and radio presenter, and author. He is best known for being in the progressive rock band Yes across five tenures between 1971 and 2004 and for his solo albums released in the 1970s. He is a current member of Yes Featuring Jon Anderson, Trevor Rabin and Rick Wakeman. G'olé! is the official documentary film of the 1982 FIFA World Cup.
Natural Gas was a rock band which released one album, Natural Gas, produced by Felix Pappalardi, in 1976. The group performed a few gigs as an opening act for Peter Frampton in 1976. They released a self-titled album and three singles. The band consisted of Joey Molland, a guitarist in Badfinger, the famous Beatles-influenced pop act which collapsed after the suicide of its primary songwriter. Mark Clarke, a sideman bass player best known for playing in Uriah Heep during '71-'72, along with Jerry Shirley, the drummer from Humble Pie and Quiver member Peter Wood. Issued in 1975 on Private Stock, Natural Gas’s only album aimed vaguely at being a harder-sounding version of Badfinger.

Ashton, Gardener and Dyke, who had been in The Birds with Rolling Stone’s Ronnie Wood. The eponymous trio had a hit single with ‘Resurrection Shuffle’ and quietly broke up after their third album. In the summer of 1974, Ashton and Lord recorded a beautifully eccentric record called ‘First of the Big Bands’. It was a brave career move for them both, mainly because Jon Lord wanted to move away from his signature sound with Deep Purple (neo-classicism played on a Hammond organ with lashings of bravado and flash). He wanted to concentrate more on a sound featuring piano and a brass section, and between them, the two maverick musicians produced a bravely peculiar, but oddly enthralling album. As you can probably guess, from the title of this record, this is a compilation of material from throughout their brief career. However, I am afraid that the band should be sued under the Trades Description Act. Musicians as amazing as this are incapable of making a bad record!

Artists: Michael Bruce
Title: Halo of Ice
Cat No.: HST482CD
Label: Gonzo
Dealer Price: £5.55

Michael Bruce was the original guitarist in Natural Gas, which consisted of Joey Molland, a guitarist in Badfinger, the famous Beatles-influenced pop act which collapsed after the suicide of its primary songwriter. Mark Clarke, a sideman bass player best known for playing in Uriah Heep during '71-'72, along with Jerry Shirley, the drummer from Humble Pie and Quiver member Peter Wood. Issued in 1975 on Private Stock, Natural Gas’s only album aimed vaguely at being a harder-sounding version of Badfinger.

Artists: Ashton, Gardener and Dyke
Title: The Worst of Ashton, Gardener and Dyke
Cat No.: HST439CD
Label: Gonzo

Tony Ashton was one of the great, underrated, British rock musicians. Starting out as organist and vocalist with the Liverpool band ‘The Remo Four’, he appeared on George Harrison’s first solo album and went on to a long standing on/off collaboration with Deep Purple’s keyboard player, Jon Lord. In the meantime, he formed a trio with Remo drummer Roy Dyke and bass player Kim Gardener, who had been in The Birds with Rolling Stone’s Ronnie Wood. The eponymous trio had a hit single with ‘Resurrection Shuffle’ and quietly broke up after their third album. In the summer of 1974, Ashton and Lord recorded a beautifully eccentric record called ‘First of the Big Bands’. It was a brave career move for them both, mainly because Jon Lord wanted to move away from his signature sound with Deep Purple (neo-classicism played on a Hammond organ with lashings of bravado and flash). He wanted to concentrate more on a sound featuring piano and a brass section, and between them, the two maverick musicians produced a bravely peculiar, but oddly enthralling album. As you can probably guess, from the title of this record, this is a compilation of material from throughout their brief career. However, I am afraid that the band should be sued under the Trades Description Act. Musicians as amazing as this are incapable of making a bad record!
climb the ladder of success and managed to release many singles during the period between 1964 and 1968. The band became Man when Deke Leonard from another Welsh band The Dream joined and the band signed to Pye records.

The music that the Man band performed however was very much removed from the pop sensibilities of The Bystanders and more in keeping with the West Coast sound of American bands such as The Quicksilver Messenger Service. The band would record two albums for Pye (Revelation and 2ozs Of Plastic With A Hole In The Middle) before leaving the label to sign with the more progressively minded Liberty records in 1970 and were to remain with the label until 1976 when they signed with MCA.

Following the deal with MCA the band released just one more studio album (The Welsh Connection) before announcing their decision to call it a day following one more tour that would be recorded and finally be released as All’s Well That Ends Well. Throughout the seventies the band had undergone a number of changes with members coming and going at an alarming rate with Deke Leonard leaving and joining and Martin Ace leaving and also returning briefly. During the years that followed the split the various members all concentrated on solo projects however in 1983 the band decided to re-form and head out on the road and play gigs and record again.

And they were just as good as ever, as you can hear on this extraordinary slice of vintage British head music.

---

Artist Man
Title The 1999 Tour Party
Cat No. PNTGZ104CD
Label Point
Dealer Price £7.99

Man are one of the most iconic British bands of the last half Century. The Man band first came together as the Bystanders in 1964. The band were one of many pop bands in the sixties that were trying to
Now, I don't know whether this is a good idea, a bad idea, or just an idea, but - as I believe you know - this magazine is put out each week on a budget of £25, and is free. It will remain free, but I would like to be able to generate some income so I can pay our contributing writers. So, 'why not flog Gonzo Weekly T Shirts?' I thought. 'Why not', I answered...

http://www.zazzle.co.uk/gonzoweekly
“Naked Radio”

The Pink Fairies To Release First New Album in 3 Decades!

The Pink Fairies official website: www.pinkfairies.net
Cop a sneak preview here:

http://tinyurl.com/z9825mr
Forthcoming releases from Rick Wakeman & Friends

Rick Wakeman & Brian May live from
STARMUS 2015

Starmus is a festival of music and astronomy on the beautiful island of Tenerife. It is the brainchild of Garik Israelian (The astrophysicist who led the team which found the first observational evidence that supernova explosions are responsible for the formation of stellar mass black holes). Rick Wakeman has made several appearances at this festival. The most notable was in 2015 where he was joined on stage by Dr Brian May, the iconic guitarist from Queen, where Rick Wakeman and English Rock Ensemble performed amongst other tracks from throughout Rick’s career a legendary version of Starship Trooper.

This DVD is a must for all fans of Classic Rock!

Available to pre-order from www.rickwakemansmusicemporium.com
Genesis released their last studio album, named Calling All Stations in 1997, more than 21 years ago. Can you believe fans are still torn about its place in the Genesis catalog – many of whom unfairly dismiss the album? Instead it is time now to celebrate this work as the amazing finale it really is.

Only two of the original band members were present for the writing and recording of Calling All Stations - keyboard maestro Tony Banks, and guitarist, bassist extraordinaire Mike Rutherford. Right. And then there were two. What happened in the last millennia is this: Anthony Phillips, the schoolboy friend of Peter Gabriel, Tony Banks, and Mike Rutherford left the band just after their second album, the breakthrough Trespass (1970). As most will know, the drummer was sacked, and Phillip Collins got the seat, along with other-new-guy Steve Hackett on guitars. This was to be the core lineup for 4 studio and 1 live albums, Nursery Crime (1971), Foxtrot (1972), Genesis Live (1973), Selling England By The Pound (1973), and the maligned-or-loved double LP The Lamb Lies Down on Broadway (1974), which directly led to Peter Gabriel’s departure after over 100 performances of the epic release.

Again, common knowledge that Phil took over on vocals, and did double duty for the four piece band on the next two albums, Trick of the Tail (1976) and Wind & Wuthering (1976 – right two albums in a year!). Also well known that in 1977, Steve Hackett, really the most progressive instrumental writer and player in the band, left during the mixing of the new double LP Seconds Out which covered several early Gabriel tracks including the epic “Supper’s Ready”, but solidly highlighted the two recent albums that featured Phil and Steve, and was supposed to have some of the EP Spot The Pigeon. No matter, the boots are better - Seconds Out was botched in the mixing room, and the band moved on to record the aptly titled And Then There Were Three. Without Steve, Mike Rutherford took over on lead and rhythm guitar (he had always played bass and rhythm guitar before), and Phil again took on vocals and drums. And he started writing songs too.

http://diegospadeproductions.com/
To make the case for the last Genesis album being the best over several prior releases, this is where we have to begin focusing. Mike and Tony were always principal writers for the group. Steve always wanted to fit more of his work in there, but with Peter, Mike and Tony doing all the writing, then without Peter, Tony and Mike doing most of the writing (save for a Collins bit here and there), we are talking about a band with an overwhelming amount of compositional skill, not just musically but important – lyrically.

Genesis lyrics are simply pure, loving and ecstatic poetry. Not fashionable for everyone, but beautiful to behold. A lot of people don’t chatter about that when thinking of the band. They think more of Phil’s gated drum sound on the self titled Genesis release of 1983, or his snare smacking on Abacab (1981), and his unbelievable drumming on Duke (1980) which is where his vocals also became a bit less “schoolboy” smooth in preference for grit. I love me the schoolboy Phil, but somewhere between Phil and Peter lies the best voice of Genesis.

Enter Scottish singer Ray Wilson. Yes, Ray people, respect please. He was an inspired choice to do lead vocal work when Phil left the band prior to 1997. His mixture of purity and grit puts his sound directly between Peter and Phil, in my view capturing the best of both, while retaining his own voice, as heard in prior band Stiltskin. Listen only to “Shipwrecked” one of Tony & Mike’s joint compositions and most beautiful recent lyrics and melody:

I'm a million miles from anywhere, where can I be Somewhere out on the ocean
Just take a look out on the horizon, what can you see
There's nothing there for me
I feel shipwrecked, I might as well be shipwrecked
I'm helpless and alone drifting out to sea
I can't believe what you said to me

Even standing on the corner of a busy city street
I still feel so lonely
Why do you say you want to be with me
But the next day say you don't

I'm shipwrecked, I might as well be shipwrecked
I'm helpless and alone drifting out to sea
I can't believe what you said to me
Without you I feel shipwrecked
But I can't let it show
A million miles away from anywhere, ooh, ooh, ooh

Is it my imagination
Or is it getting darker, are the waves getting higher
I'm a million miles from anywhere
A million miles from anything I know

You know that's why I'm shipwrecked
I might as well be shipwrecked
I'm helpless and alone drifting out to sea
I can't believe what you said to me
You know that's why I'm shipwrecked, shipwrecked
Losing my direction
Please come and rescue me (shipwrecked)
Shipwrecked
Shipwrecked
Shipwrecked
Shipwrecked

© Imagem Music, Inc.

Tony and Mike did all the writing of course, and that’s a lot of writing firepower by the way, and Ray sang all

http://diegospadeproductions.com/
the songs on Calling All Stations, released in 1997. This album reached number 2 in the UK – pretty good for 1997 right? In the US it sank, not entering our top 50. Wikipedia says critics disparaged the album for a “lack of direction” – idiots. There is absolutely a direction here – take all the good things about Tony and Mike’s writing, limit Tony a keyboard with a gorgeous strings palette, get Mike to squeeze out his very best bass and guitar licks, and highlight hired drummers, Nir Zidkyahu and Nick D’Virgilio. In particular, Nir is featured on the best track for anyone wanting prog-era Genesis, “The Dividing Line” where he simply out-Phil’s-Phil.

Blasphemy says ye, no – listen to this album in whatever state you are in when music catches your ear just right. There are a lot of ballads, yes, but that’s also true of the last Phil Collins-led album, the mostly-brilliant-after third song finale I Can’t Dance (1991). Instead open your heart – don’t worry about Phil, he did the reunion tour and now with health issues will probably never record with Genesis again. But revel in the beauty of this, their last full release, over an hour of the best music for a certain taste.

Tragically say I, the American leg of the tour to support Calling All Stations was cancelled due to poor ticket sales. They should have gone ahead and done small theaters, why not the Roxy in Hollywood where they got their LA start?

It was a mistake, and also, sniff, the end result was Mike and Tony decided the “market did not want them” and stopped trying. Ray nailed the old Phil and Peter songs on the European tour. Early songs included many perfectly suited to Ray, even if a pitch lower to make them doable. No medleys people – full songs beginning to end, including “The Lamb,” “The Carpet Crawlers,” “Firth of Fifth,” and “Mama” (why?). I have the “bootleg” DVD of a tour stop in Poland, which is awesome, and they actually do “Dancing with the Moonlit Knight.” Wow

Is that enough to make you reconsider. Get the re-release double CD?DVD from 2007 and you will hear and see the band in its best possible form, before we partied cause it was 1999.

Peace.

The picture on this page is courtesy Armando Gallo

http://diegospadeproductions.com/
A week of weird wonderment around Uzupis

Music, mayhem, giant eggs and, erm, much more, with Alan Dearling in Lithuania

I am by no means the first person to lose their heart and thus their head in Uzupis Free Republik. It's a strange mix of art, anarchy and organised chaos. It lies just on the outer edge of Old Town Vilnius. And once again I was privileged to be invited to join in the annual Independence celebrations. In 2018 Uzupis is 21 years old in 'independence years' from when it technically seceded from Lithuania and the world. The photo shows the original paintwork on what became the squatted arts hub of the Uzupio Gallery.

alan dearling
Tomas Chepaitis is the wonderfully oddball Minister of Foreign Affairs. He presides as the joker-of-ceremonies. Usually Independence Day is one day of ministerial gatherings, a huge street parade, bands, music, poetry, children's games, proclamations and much bawdy (and, yes, drunken) revelry. However, in 2018, April 1st clashed with Easter Sunday. Lithuania is a deeply religious, Roman Catholic country, so the independence fun and frolics were spread over three days.
Day One was mostly about bringing the Uzupis Ambassadors from around the world and just off its edges together, plus the appointing of new ambassadors, consuls and the awarding of the new recognition as 'Chevalier of the Giant Silver Garlic of Uzupis', complete with heavyweight silver garlic pendants. All delightfully surreal, especially as I was awarded one, in my guise as Ambassador to the Scottish-English borderlands.

Anyway, enough self-nepotism.

I hope that this article and the photos will transport you into some Uzupian worlds.
Strangely strange. No straight lines. A life of curves and gentle eccentricity. In some ways a fantasy world. One occasionally containing odd moments of 'Old School' confrontational anarchy. Uzupis started its recent life as a rather neglected area of mostly crumbling cobbled streets and many old, semi-derelict buildings. About 30 years ago, whilst still under Soviet domination, artists, musicians, writers - creative types - began to squat the buildings, starting down by the River Vilnia. They grew in number and confidence, and wanted a symbolic, and at times real independence, from the mundane, grey existence of 'urban normality'. So, as in, 'why not?', they created their own constitution, President,
Prime Minister, national anthem, and with four flags - one for each season - created a Republik which is now something of a national treasure, visited by many thousands of visitors each year. There is also now UMI, which is an Arts Incubator for generating new arts and cultural initiatives in the area, and through supporting visiting creative artists by offering a studio in which to work, coupled with a very special environment within which to do it. That's the context. Giant egg-rolling, a mini parade, Uzupis chess tournament and a card game called 'Fool', together with live music and speeches and some added communal singing kicked off events. And on Easter Monday, the day of the 'White Tablecloths', despite pretty dreadful weather, free food and drinks were distributed to locals and visitors with a wonderful bonhomie. Beautifully painted Easter eggs were put on display and rolled by many from 8 months old to 80. Darts was played, candy floss, bubbles, lights, with dilapidated pianos joined by my own musical noise-making session in the UMI Gallery - for small adults and bigger ones! Everyone should be a child. Plus bands, and more speeches (all in Lithuanian) in the Uzupis square under the watchful guardian Angel statue.

Here's the link to the afternoon session in UMI:
https://www.facebook.com/uzupis/videos/10156371365707716/

And to Uzupis itself:
https://www.facebook.com/uzupis/

some musical interludes

Overall, I watched parts of the sets from half a dozen bands. Really old school rock from local legends, Poliarizuoti stiklai (Polarized glasses) kicked off the proceedings. Musical Dinosaurs who don't care that they resemble a gang of Hell's Angels with bus passes. We always wondered what would happen when the Rolling Stones all ended up in a care home dispensing coke and amphetamines!

Find out more about Poliarizuoti stiklai at:
https://www.facebook.com/shnaji/
I have to say I was really impressed with the reggae-inspired, Uprising Tree, so I asked them a short set of questions:

Alan: Have you released CDs or downloads/videos?

Uprising Tree: Yes, last October we have our debut album released. It's called 'Rainbow People'. Check it out here:

https://youtu.be/gWCiUzTc0wI

https://open.spotify.com/album/3cAIjwtojcuws2NB1WYME?si=etq2JlpPTPmO0kgVmAiNA

Alan: Where have you played outside of Lithuania?

Uprising Tree: Poland.

Alan: And, how long have you been together?

Uprising Tree: Since 2015.

Alan: Who are your own main influences?

Uprising Tree: Rainbow Family, World music, Jah9, Shpongle, Lithuanian Folk music, traditional music, God, Intuition.

And here are the contacts for the band so you can find out more, watch videos etc. They would really work well on our World stages in Netherlands, Germany and the UK. Anywhere really. My kind of band. So, Uprising Tree are, to quote them, "The most positive Tree, born from music and rising straight up to your heart!"

uprisingtreeband@gmail.com

FB: https://www.facebook.com/uprisingtree/

Instagram: uprising_tree

I saw parts of local punk legends, Nerius Peciu's set twice, once on the main stage and in the Uzupio Kavine. They are nice fellahs, and don't really seem to have enough spit and attitude to be 'punks' in the way we mean it back in the USA and UK. Indeed, in the Kavine, they looked positively frightened when a small group of us started some good-natured pogoing. Their songs are also not exactly punk-styled, 'Hard Rock Hallelujah' being a good example. Medium hard rock/medium heavy metal. I smiled when I read their description in English on the official poster: "...legend of freedom and Lithuanian pun rock." Exactly. Make up your own mind:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9W5CkjX1N60
Rakija Klezmer Orchestra

Klezmer music is rumbustuous. Full of brass, lively, dance-friendly - and the RKO are good purveyors of this style. They look the part - nice beards, guys. And they use the stage well, presenting a show for the audience. Yiddish music at its best. Fun stuff, well played. A reminder also that Vilnius was the site of some of the worst Jewish genocide in Europe. Here’s are two nice little live clips of the RKO:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lf4eOvgKuqg
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_q8Q0BwagX0

Baltasis Kiras

I’ve seen this band before. Really nice guys, and some of their music works completely, especially their rock numbers which display more than a passing nod towards Led Zeppelin. The singer has a great voice. They also shift gear into folk mode and then into pop, then rap. It’s a bit too schizophrenic for me - though I enjoyed some lively dancing with a doughty Lithuanian lady who seemed to be worrisomely interested in my kilt! Baltasis Kiras are very popular here in Lithuania. There’s probably too much vocal-based pop to completely work for international audiences. Here are two samples:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fIBRwV0TWyU
A band I haven't yet seen live, but am enjoying the new album by, 'Dowry from a swamp' are Sen Svaja. Somehow their own description sums them up nicely: "Sen Svaja is a Lithuanian experimental post-folklore band from Vilnius. They enrich folk songs ... The band Sen Svaja consists of three women. All of them possess origins of pixies."

Haunting, ethereal music:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=adzAk-tLh8I

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YiWSmdNHS_8

Another band I've yet to see perform are Arklio Galia. I met Zilvinas, the band's singer, at the Elektrit Bar and he very kindly gave me a copy of their first commercially produced CD: 'Antakalnis'. I love the cover design, in fact all the artwork for the album - wonderful street scenes. Here's a sample of their 'sound':

https://www.facebook.com/arkliogalia/videos/10155439532815536/

The music is adventurous, jazzy, edgy, arty, fairly challenging, and whilst I cannot understand the lyrics, a fair amount of the feeling and the passion comes over strongly. One for me to listen to more. Here's the link to their Facebook page where you can watch videos (not all music), listen their music and see more artwork:

https://www.facebook.com/arkliogalia/

Bars, beauty and other eccentricities...

In addition to Uzupis, the whole of Vilnius city is well worth exploring. Gothick, Baroque and Medieval. Towering and imposing churches and cathedrals, bastions and crumbling walls. Authenticity of the real and faked-up kinds...

Street art and graffiti. It is gradually becoming less street-art-edgy and more gentrified.

A shame in my view, but an inevitability as capitalism replaces the old regime. Busy designer bars, locals plus visitors from all around the world. Colourful characters in bucket-loads.

But there are equally crammed-full student bars. In Uzupis, Snekutis is about to close, a casualty to gentrified new development. Very sad as it offers cheap food for students and everyone else, good beers and an almost down-home country museum cum pub atmosphere.
Thankfully there are two more Snekutis bars in town, but there is still a need for one in Uzupis - its original home.

Spunka bar is anarchy in action - tiny, irreverent and cheerful.
Devinke (Bar 9) is a bit more trendy and has some great hand-drawn tables - an imaginative idea. I've had some unusual evenings in Devinke as art and music confront less interested and involved customers just wanting a quiet drink. I was invited by a young, fairly confrontational artist, Balandos, to provide my musical noise-making workshop, as an added attraction for her guests. She features many very explicit sexual images. It was a lively time and I met some lovely, energetic young people. Here are some pics from Devinke. First some of the artwork which has evolved on the tables:

Then, Balandos/Balanda herself, her logo, poster, samples of her art, plus one pic of part of the music workshop.

https://www.facebook.com/balabalandos/
Finally, in Uzupis, there is the Uzupio Kavine which is a mix of bar, cafe and restaurant with a big outside terrace on to the river. The whole area is full of contrasts, contradictions, conundrums, and warm, generous and friendly people. All worth a leisurely investigation. During my own stay, one day I would be invited to an electronic dj party, and the next to a fairy story play, all 'signed' for deaf people and their children to enjoy. I hope you can enjoy it sometime! I will be back in the summer, as I am co-organising the Magick Gathering Festival in the country 70 km from Vilnius. More info soon:

www.magickgathering.com
In fact, this graffiti sums it up - this is a place of dreams...

luv ’n respect to the photographers who contributed their photos along with mine.

_Uzupis Ambassador Alan._
Expect the Unexpected!

‘An excursion to a strangely familiar place that you have never previously dreamed of.’ (Alan Moore, writer Jerusalem, From Hell)

‘Utterly beguiling and often unsettling... a tour de force of storytelling.’ (David Caddy, editor 'Tears in the Fence')

‘Within five minutes of picking the book up I was immediately entranced.’ (Jonathan Downes, editor 'Gonzo Weekly' magazine)

Richard Foreman's Wilful Misunderstandings

Readers' comments:

‘Stories like dreams half remembered, tapping into a seam (or seeming) of the unconscious mind.’

‘A sanctuary, a haven, a totally immersive other world...’

‘A book to tickle and amaze, to ruffle and amuse and sometimes to raise the hairs on the back of your neck.’

Cost £6.95 (+p&p) at:
http://lepusbooks.co.uk/wilful-misunderstandings/

All copies from Lepus can be signed by the writer on request

For sample stories & more info visit: Richeff.moonfruit.co
MORE MASTERPIECES from RICK WAKEMAN

TWO SIDES OF YES
Double CD set. The very best of Yes. Wakeman style
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

THE STAGE COLLECTION
Recorded live in August 1993 in Buenos Aires
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

TIME MACHINE
Guest vocalists include John Parr, Tracey Aberman, Ashley Holt, and Ray Wood
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

CASTANK
Double CD set. Rick’s classic 1982 music and chat show
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

GÔLÉ!
Soundtrack album featuring Tony Fernandez and Jackie McAuley
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

COUNTRY AIRS
The original recording, with two new tracks
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

THE BURNING
The original Soundtrack album, back in print at last!
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

LURE OF THE WILD
With Adam Wakeman. Entirely instrumental
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

STARMUS
With Brian May and The English Rock Ensemble. DVD
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

MYTHS AND LEGENDS
Double CD set. The expanded 2016 version
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

LIVE AT THE WINTERLAND THEATRE 1975
Live in San Francisco
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA
Double CD + DVD
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

CAN YOU HEAR ME?
Featuring The English Chamber Choir
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

CRIMES OF PASSION
A wicked and erotic soundtrack!
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.

BEYOND THE PLANETS
With Jeff Wayne and Kevin Peck
Available from RickWakemanMusicEmporium.com and all other good music retailers.
61

Incredibly, the vinyl revival is still on a roll here. UK album sales topped 4 million in 2017, another year of growth. Whilst Ginger Nuts might have been number 1, Fleetwood Mac’s Rumours was no 3 and Floyd’s DSOM was number 7! These figures are a fraction of sales of the 1970s but show growth of physical media sales. CDs sales held better than expected, they too are not about to go away either it seems in a hurry, in spite of many predictions otherwise.

The marketing onslaught continues unabated for records, with new specialist magazines telling you which essential vinyl albums you need to buy. It’s basically good for the generations that follow behind us I guess, that music has value and the best will always stand the ultimate test, of time.

Turntable sales are up too of course, and RSD is sponsored by Rega, one of the UK’s best hi-fi kit makers.

If you had asked me only two months ago which medium I preferred to listen to I would have said vinyl without question. In context, however, of course, many of the albums in my collection were recorded before digital recording existed - the world was still analogue - let alone CDs. However since my recent return to

Record Store Day UK Tomorrow! (Saturday 21st April 2018)

John Brodie-Good
my music, later in life, I quickly realised many of the artists I like have released more recent/solo stuff and many live recordings only on CD (and or digital downloads which I’m ignoring for the purposes of this piece) so the modern music aficionado needs a CD player too. In fact, my vinyl system is one room and my CD system in the same room as my iMac. The reality is I listen to CDs a lot more than vinyl currently. I’ve been running a very good CD player these past few years, a mid-range performer, which I bought s/h a few years back for less than half price. Early March this year was the run up to my 60th and a thought entered my head. I’ve got a top-flight turntable, what about a top-flight CD player? The big problem with the few that are rated the very best musically is that they are all somewhat expensive, about £30k+ list in fact! Stories of some of the said players having reliability issues made any possible prospect for me out. Minimum four figure service repair/service bills, no thanks either. Then I remembered something and started googling. ‘95% of the performance of the top players, and a 1/5 of the price (list)’ quotes a highly respected US audio journalist. The particular player he mentions is British, but rarely comes up for sale s/h. Fuck me, the very next day I’m staring at one on a main dealer’s website, less than half-price, full manufacturer’s guarantee, two spare matching mechs back at the factory, it will outlast me. Sometimes you just get lucky it seems.

Isis arrived two days later, all 25 kilos of it! It was total and complete love at first track, God I had no idea there was real music on CDs too, I still have a silly great grin on my face three weeks or so later. My vinyl system demands being listened to, you can’t help but do so. The CD system was often on in the background however. I almost can’t do that now, that magical music box just pulls so much aural joy out you just cannot sit there and not be totally drawn in. I happened to have treated my turntable over the winter months to a few upgrades too so that system still wins the day but Isis has changed my perception of ‘digital’ music, I have to say.

Hey, it’s RSD again, possibly getting a bit tired as a concept but as I’ve said before, the best bit is just going really, ’cos basically it’s like a typical Saturday used to be in any record store throughout the land, in the early 1970s. The times of no web/mobiles, you got your music news from NME, the OGWT, John Peel and/or your local platter parlour. Maybe it’s my old stoned memory but there always seemed a bit of a buzz. These were the days when walking the streets with a bunch of albums under your arm was really cool. Not a friggin smartphone and/or plastic waterbottle in sight. It was also sitting on your arse with your credit card but it is often the reality if you don’t like scrums. Sometimes the stuff I’m after is still there, but usually it’s fleabay. You may of course get lucky, don’t know ‘til you try though?

Most of the releases are not really ‘new’ or ‘never heard before’ of course, many are first time on vinyl (which means digital files and shit sound in many cases) or re-issued where they haven’t been pressed for some years previously. Far too many will be heavyweight vinyl which does not usually give better sound to ‘normal’ vinyl; more marketing hype kids. Some will be groovy colours too. Didn’t notice any with wacky covers in the list, there was a handmade (artisan?) wooden-framed album a few years back, think most of them got recycled into firewood!

I’ve taken a trawl through this year’s list and picked out the ones that may be of interest to Gonzo readers; sorry if I missed anything you might find funkydoodle, the full official list is easy and quick to scroll through anyway…

All the following are 12inch vinyl albums (unless stated), there are a ton of singles on the list too!

- Beverley Martyn – 1st album from late 1960s JM’s one time wife, featuring ‘session musicians’ Jimmy Page, John Paul Jones, Nicky Hopkins and John Renbourn! One of the few really interesting ones for me, annoyingly in mono. (I was born with stereo hearing……it still sorta works…..)

- Dylan & The Dead – Live A reissue, their combined version of All Along The Watchtower kicks some serious ass! The Dead really could boogie

- Allman Bros Band – An early live 4LP set.

- Arthur Lee & Love – A live double LP set culled from various years.

- Bert Jansch – various
• Boz Scaggs – Lowdown This is actually a 12inch single of one of the best drum tracks ever laid down in my view. The backbeat of this hit just cooks and cooks. There is a stunning recent version of this song on YouTube, Scaggs (now over 70) nailing live it with the Dukes of September (Donald Fagen and friends).

• Curved Air – Airconditioning - a reissue

• Bowie – various I suspect these will be the big money targets, his debut as a double LP set, both mono and stereo, a triple live set from 1978, and a previous US only released compilation.
• Deviants – Ptooff! – re-issue with original artwork and poster (it says). Mick Farren and friends of course…

• Dickey Betts – Live 1978 A double LP set from one of the Allman’s guitarists. Funnily enough, he’s on my possible see live list. In fact, I’m seriously eying up a gig in New York State this July. Little Feat, Hot Tuna plus Dickey Betts headlining!

• Dr Who – Soundtracks From 1967 & 1979

• Frank Zappa – Lumpy Gravy

Primordial An early ‘ballet’, mono
Miles Davis – Rubberband A tad confusing this one, a long-lost Miles album, but this is a 12inch single…… heavyweight too (140g not 180g, FFS!). I suspect another popular title……

Neil Young – Tonight’s The Night Live 1973 – Double LP

Pink Floyd – Piper…… – re-issue (mono)

Rolling Stones – ‘Satanic Majesties….’ – re-issue, ‘original’ 3D

George Martin – Film scores The 5th Beatle, two pieces wot he wrote. Could be popular too.

Groundhogs – debut album – re-issue

Hawkwind – various A triple LP re-issue of Levitation plus a compilation called Dark Matter, first time on plastic. Graham may know more……

June Tabor – Ashore – Double LP, first time on vinyl.

(again).

Miles Davis – Rubberband A tad confusing this one, a long-lost Miles album, but this is a 12inch single…… heavyweight too (140g not 180g, FFS!). I suspect another popular title……

Neil Young – Tonight’s The Night Live 1973 – Double LP

Pink Floyd – Piper…… – re-issue (mono)

Rolling Stones – ‘Satanic Majesties….’ – re-issue, ‘original’ 3D
So hopefully, something for everyone. Think of it as recorded music day, one of the true arts. See you down there, the weather forecast is good for a change too.....

[Links]
- Sandy Denny – third album – re-issue
- Tangerine Dream – 12inch single – 2 new tracks!
- Yes – Tormato – re-issue, picture disc Even Prog! Their 9th studio effort (it says here)
- Plus of course the annual Grateful Dead & Sun Ra live box sets........

https://recordstoreday.co.uk/home/
https://www.ebay.co.uk
Manhattan School of Music. But, after marrying just five years later, and starting a family, he decided that he couldn’t make a living playing jazz and became a teacher himself. Over the years he has released seven CDs, but it is only in recent times that he has started gigging again in earnest.

There is something about a jazz trio that is very special indeed, and in Billy we have here a pianist who loves to play around the tune, and improvise accordingly, while the double bass and drums provide the perfect backdrop. Nicola uses brushes extensively, and this gives a particular sound, while Marcello is content to duet, solo, or just keep it all together in the background. I find it incredibly hard to play this CD with my eyes open, as it just draws me in and makes me want to relax into the groove, and let the amazing sounds wash over me. I could listen to Billy all day… www.billylester.com 8/10

Billy is a native of Westchester, but when he met bassist Marcello Testa and drummer Nicola Stranieri in Italy in 2014, they all realised that they were incredibly sympathetic to each other musically, and that they should work together. Gigs in Italy followed, all which led up to this album. Billy was originally taught and mentored by Sal Mosca, who encouraged him to study the solos of influential saxophonist Lester Young, and at the age of 18 he won entry to the prestigious prove, so they are just going to go out and have a total blast. Actually, they even used some of the recordings taken that night, just removed the audience and let Joe sing to it again in the studio. It is an album that makes the listener smile from the beginning through to the end: they have captured the original sound and have made it their very own. Just listen to the awesome “One More Chance To Run”, it has all the power and stridency of the original, but brought up to date with Joe’s rasping vocals. I can’t believe I missed this when it was originally released, I love it! 8/10

JOE ELLIOTT'S DOWN ‘N’ OUTZ
MY REGENERATION
FRONTIERS MUSIC

Joe Elliott of Def Leppard has never hidden his massive admiration for Mott The Hoople, who these days are probably one of the most forgotten bands of the Seventies. Mott The Hoople was also the birthplace for many other bands, including the criminally overlooked British Lions, so when it was announced that the band was going to reform for some shows in 2009 it is no surprise that he wanted to get involved in some way. Some conversations soon led him to The Quireboys who said that they were also keen to get involved, and suddenly a new project was on the cards. The Down 'N' Outz supported Mott The Hoople at one of their legendary 2009 reformation shows at Hammersmith Odeon, and in the band, was Joe (vocals/guitar/ keyboards), The Quireboys' Paul Guerin (Guitar), Guy Griffin (Guitar), Keith Weir (keyboards) and Phil Martini (drums) and finally bassist Ronnie Garrity (Raw Glory).

The band went down a storm, and even though it was supposed to be just a one-night gig they felt they ought to record an album based on the set, which was just covers of songs by artists related to Mott the Hoople, such as Mott, British Lions and Ian Hunter. Released in 2010, here we have a group of guys with nothing to prove, so they are just going to go out and have a total blast. Actually, they even used some of the recordings taken that night, just removed the audience and let Joe sing to it again in the studio. It is an album that makes the listener smile from the beginning through to the end: they have captured the original sound and have made it their very own. Just listen to the awesome “One More Chance To Run”, it has all the power and stridency of the original, but brought up to date with Joe’s rasping vocals. I can’t believe I missed this when it was originally released, I love it! 8/10

DOWN ‘N' OUTZ
THE FURTHER ADVENTURES OF...
FRONTIERS MUSIC

The band had so much fun, that they undertook some tours, and then in 2014 released a follow-up album, by which time they had dropped Joe’s name from the band, and kicked it off with “Rock and Roll Queen” from Mott The Hoople’s debut album which had been released more than forty years earlier. What makes this album for me, as with the others, is that the at the heart of it all are great songs, which are then performed by musicians who are going to do the best job possible of playing them with integrity. This is an album that harkens back to the Seventies, yet has been brought right up to date, and is much more than just a group of covers, it is very much a valid album in its own right.

“One of the Boys” original opened the second side of MTH’s amazing ‘All The Young Dudes’ album, and again follows Joe’s mantra of working out what songs he would like to hear as a fan, and then going out and learning them! These are classic songs being given a new breath of life, and any fan of Mott The Hoople (or any of the offshoots), Def Leppard or The Quireboys should grab this with both hands. 8/10

DOWN ‘N’ OUTZ
THE FURTHER LIVE ADVENTURES OF...
FRONTIERS MUSIC

While the two studio albums are reissues, this DVD/2CD set, recorded at Sheffield Corporation in 2014, is a brand-new release. Sadly, I don’t have the DVD to review, but a quick trawl of YouTube made me realise that the opening number “Funeral For A Friend/Love Lies Bleeding” not only features Joe sat at a piano, but he is so far off to the side of the stage that he’s almost not on it! After an opener that lasts more than eleven minutes, it is front and centre for the bombastic “One More Chance To Run” – when I first heard the original all those years ago I loved it so much that I went out and bought the album, and now here we have it with Joe not only providing lead vocals but rhythm guitar, taking the band to three!

This album is just one hit rock song after another, all being played by great musicians who have all cut their teeth on numerous high-profile gigs. They play with the tightness that only comes from years of hitting the boards, yet also with a looseness as they are playing songs that were written and made famous by others, knowing that they are in front of not only of fans of what they do and their own music, but also the music made by others so many years before. This is a great live album, played by musicians out to have a blast, and who are enjoying it at least as much as those watching them. Not all side projects are a success, and not all cover bands are worth the price of admittance, here you get both, in spades. Now all you have to do is get out there, enjoy this, and then do some research into the originals, take it from me it is all definitely worth the effort. 9/10

BLOOD RED SAINTS
LOVE HATE CONSPIRACIES
AOR HEAVEN

Blood Red Saints are a band new to me, but apparently, they released their debut in 2015. Although, it has to be said, that looking at the band photo these guys have all been involved in the scene for quite some time, as they’re not as young as they used to be. That isn’t a problem for me, as they really know what they’re doing, and have produced a melodic hard rock album that would put many people half their age to shame. There has been a line-up change since the debut, and original members Pete Godfrey (vocals), Rob Naylor (bass) and Lee Revill (guitars) have been joined by Neil Hibbs (formerly of Arkhams Razor, Shy) on guitar and drummer Andy Chemney. Andy had worked with Rob in their previous band 'Angels Or Kings'. Rob takes up the story. "I've known Andy nearly all my life, he was the guy I wanted for our band and we are so pleased to have finally got our man".

What we have here is ‘Pyromania’ era Def Leppard, combined with some overt Americanisms, and bloody good it is too. They have anthem writing down to an art form, with hooks and harmony vocals aplenty, while in Pete Godfrey they have a singer who combines melody with a roughness, just sharpening the sound slightly to give them an edge. The drums are all over the place, doing whatever is needed to drive the sound, the bass is melodic and then there are two crunching guitarists who can also solo like the devil when the need arises. Melodic hard rock can often come over too sanitised in the studio, but this album keeps it neatly balanced, while also promising more when the band hit the stage.

www.aorheaven.com 7/10

BLUES PILLS
LADY IN GOLD – LIVE IN PARIS
NUCLEAR BLAST

Blues Pills last album, ‘Lady In Gold’, got to #1 in the German album charts and also led them through the vast majority of the European continent. Known for powerful and jam laden live performances, the band keeps growing their fanbase, and on October 30th, 2016, they played a sold-out show in front of 1200 euphoric fans at Le Trianon in Paris, France. Here they showcased their chart-breaking second album in all its glory, but with even more power and a much rawer, more rock 'n' roll edge to it. I love these guys, there is a sense of honesty and realism in what they do, with a singer who is always on the edge and a band that is full of swagger and self-belief.

In many ways, it is as if Big Brother & The Holding Company have joined forces with Stone The Crows, and a staunch refusal to accept that it is the 21st Century. The bass sound is so deep that one can sit back and relax into the notes like an armchair, while the drummer is determined to make his presence felt and the guitars are distorted to just the right level, and the organist shows he has been studying the greats and doesn’t overplay when there is no need. And then of course there is Elin Larsson, who has absolutely nothing in common with the plastic “idols” of the current music scene, but must have grown up singing “Oh Lord, won’t you buy me a Mercedes Benz, My friends all drive Porsches, I must make amends”. Only for those who love the Seventies, when music was real.

www.nuclearblast.de 8/10
BRAD GARTON & DAVE SOLDIER
THE BRAINWAVE MUSIC PROJECT
MULATTA

Imagine if thoughts could be turned into music without actually having to physically play an instrument? For the last ten years musician/neuroscientist Dave Soldier and composer/computer-musician Brad Garton have been experimenting in using electroencephalograph (EEG) machines to do just that. An EEG measures the electrical activity in the brain, and they have developed some software tool that can generate music using this brainwave data. In shows Dave gives a lecture on the brain’s cortical activity, Brad explains how this is turned into music, and then they use their own brainwaves or those of guest musicians to “compose” in real time.

This album features four different soloists, who all played on 3 or 4 songs, and they are credited on each as playing their own instrument (flute, Hardanger fiddle, mandolin or drums) plus EEG. Perhaps unsurprisingly the result is incredibly Avant Garde, and quite unlike anything I have come across before this. There is no musical rhythm or repetition, yet although it is often chaotic, somehow it does all seem to make sense; which must be right as the soloist is accompanying his/herself, although not consciously. It is strange, at times unsettling, sometimes oriental, and always strangely compelling. This will definitely only be of interest who enjoy their music to come out of left field, as it doesn’t get much further from the mainstream than this. www.mulatta.org 7/10

BUGENHAGEN
BU:GEN'HEIGEN
REBEL UKE RECORDS

This is the debut mini album from Cumbria-based progressive/melodic rock band Bugenhagen. Fronted by multi-instrumentalist and vocalist John Turpin, the trio (the line-up is completed by Paul Fligg on drums and bassist Daneo Duran) initially came together as a Pink Floyd tribute act, but began to work original material into their set, here represented on this thirty-minute CD. The PR company likens their music to Pink Floyd and David Gilmour along with echoes of No Man/Tim Bowness, Muse and Hogarth-era Marillion, but for me one of the main standouts has to be Mr So & So. As soon as I started playing opener “Without You By My Side”, I could see where the band was coming from, and it reminded me that the So & So’s need to get a new album out!

These guys crossover the progressive and melodic rock genres, bringing in pop sensibilities that could also seeing them
Dan Nelsen (fretless bass), John Mitchell (It Bites/Arena, guitar, vocals), Andy Tillison (PO90/The Tangent etc., organ) and Theo Travis (saxophone, flute).

Although she has surrounded herself with musicians she knows and trusts, this album isn’t an out and prog album, although it does contain progressive elements and could, just, be considered as crossover, but rather is an album that is based around her voice and reflective songs that show her restraint and control to best effect. Although I have known her through band albums, I haven’t heard her other solo work, but can see that I am now going to have to search it out as this is a delicate and beautiful piece of work.

There are times when it is just her and a piano, and the use of a fretless bass is a great touch as the warmth given by that instrument works perfectly with the feel. Most singers feel the need to be forceful and overtly in the listener’s ears and face, but here Christina is singing wonderfully, with emotional songs that fit her voice perfectly, while the arrangements are also doing all they can not to take away from the, at times, waif-like quality of her voice.

That it has taken me three years to come across this is very much my loss, and I hope to hear more from this wonderful singer in the near future. 8/10

https://www.facebook.com/bugenband/

CHRISTINA
THE LIGHT
TIGER MOTH PRODUCTIONS

For progheds in the know, mention just the single word ‘Christina’, and everyone is aware that the person under discussion is Christina Booth, frontwoman of Magenta since their inception in 2001. This was her second solo album, released nearly three years ago now, but I have only just come across it. Joining her on this musical odyssey was Rob Reed on keyboards, guitar and bass (with whom she has worked with for many years, all the way back to Cyan), Andy Edwards (Magenta, drums) and Chris Fry (guitar) along with Fran Murphy (backing vocals),
THE COMPLETE GOSPELS

The Gospels evolved because Rick Wakeman was asked to perform at an organ recital to raise money for the Camberley United Reform Church, which was in desperate need of a new organ. Rick pondered what to play and the more he thought about it and what the evening should mean, the more he felt that something very special was about to take place.

Thoughts of the New Testament kept creeping into his mind and he decided to write an instrumental piece to the settings of the four Gospels. He began working but after a couple of hours realised that there was no way he was going to get across the feelings he wished to portray without singing. The music seemed to cry out for an operatic tenor.

Amazingly enough, just a few weeks earlier, Rick had met the famous tenor Ramon Remedios at a charity concert in which they both performed and he plucked up courage to ask him if he would kindly agree to perform the New Gospels with him. The concert was a tremendous success and Ramon’s feeling and understanding of the music moved many people to tears.

The complete Gospels is a limited edition box set containing all the known recordings of the project both audio and visual. Along with a reproduction A4 x 12 page concert program.

Special Limited Edition Boxset containing

Signed by Rick Wakeman and numbered certificates.
DVD containing over 2 hours of footage including an in depth interview with Rick about the project.
Double CD 1, The Original Gospels - with Robert Powell as the Narrator.
Double CD 2, The New Gospels
DVD / CD of The Gospels performed live in California - never seen before.
Reproduction A4 x 12 page concert program.

The Rainbow Suite

This is a brand new orchestral piece written and performed by Rick Wakeman and the Orion Orchestra. This is a specially written piece of therapeutic music designed for people with an Autistic Spectrum Disorder to enjoy as well aficionados of good quality instrumental music.

This is Rick and Orchestra at their finest !!!

Available to pre-order from www.rickwakemansmusicemporium.com
This is the most important moment in history to do something for African elephants. Because it's the worst time in history to be an elephant.

In 1980 there were 1.2 million elephants in Africa. Now there are just 430,000 and 20,000 were killed last year alone to fuel soaring demand for ivory. About one every 20 minutes.

That's why The Nature Conservancy has teamed up with music industry icon Martin Guitar on #SaveElephants -- a movement to provide people with simple actions to help elephants that will add up to make a difference.

Martin Guitar has been a leader in elephant protection since the 1970s when the company made the decision to stop using ivory on its guitars and started to phase the material from its supply chain. As the founding sponsor of #SaveElephants, Martin has donated five custom elephant-themed guitars for raising funds.

#SaveElephants is part of a partnership between the Conservancy's programs in Africa and China to increase wildlife security, expand habitat, reduce demand, and reduce poverty and instability in places where elephants range -- the root cause of poaching.

Ultimately, this is bigger than elephants. Poaching spreads crime and instability, threatening lives and tourism-based income that's desperately needed by the people who live among elephants.

We have to do more. That's why we're thrilled to be working with Martin Guitar -- and with you. Together, we're powerful.

Asante sana (thank you very much),

David Banks
Director, Africa Region
The Nature Conservancy

p.s. Start helping elephants today at nature.org/elephants and follow us on Instagram, Facebook or Twitter to get action alerts.
Now recognised as the leading online magazine of its type, Phenomena Magazine is a FREE magazine from Manchester's Association of Paranormal Investigation and Training (MAPIT).

Recognised as the leading online magazine of its type, now distributed worldwide, ‘Phenomena Magazine’ is a FREE monthly publication. Phenomena looks into the whole realm of the Strange, Profound, Unknown and Unexplained, delving into subjects of the Paranormal, Ufological, Cryptozoological, Parapsychological, Earth Mysteries, Supernatural and Fortean Events. Guest writers along with reviews of books, movies and documentaries add to the content as does recent news from around the world. Phenomena Magazine can be downloaded from our site every month for FREE in PDF Format.

GET YOURS FREE TODAY!

DOWNLOAD YOUR FREE COPY AT...

WWW.PHENOMENAMAGAZINE.CO.UK
Roy Weard
This House In Amber
New Album out now
Available on CD from:
www.weard.co.uk
CD / digital download:
https://royweard.bandcamp.com/album/this-house-in-amber Interestingly, The Blackheart Orchestra is actually a performing duo, Chrissy Mostyn and Rick Pilkington. Described as "award-winning British songwriters, composers and multi-instrumentalists," the musical act is described on their Facebook page thus:

"The pioneering duo blend musical styles seamlessly sidestepping boundaries to create music huge enough to fill a cathedral. Well known for producing music beyond all easily marketed genres, their multi-instrumental sonic landscapes have always been too unpredictable for pop, too adventurous for the mainstream and too plain weird for folk."

The write-up continues:

"Fusing acoustic fragility and electronica, The Blackheart Orchestra bring together stringed instruments with 80's synthesisers and classical influences. Often mistaken for an 8-piece band on first listen, their stage has been described as a 'musical spaceship' or 'laboratory' where they are to be found continuously changing from electric and acoustic guitars, bowed guitar, piano, organ, bass and electronic percussion to vintage synthesisers, omnichord and melodica in a complex choreographed weave.

Hawkwind have announced the support act for their forthcoming orchestral min-tour, saying: "We are happy to welcome The Blackheart Orchestra aboard as our guests for In Search of Utopia - Infinity and Beyond!"
of musical moods and textures.”

Nothing has been announced yet about the actual orchestra that is to accompany Hawkwind during their search for utopia.

The Hawkwind 6-venue England tour is in October/November in Salford (Manchester), Leeds, Gateshead, London, Bath and Birmingham. A seventh date, one of two at the London Palladium, sold out months ago.
Greetings space travellers!
This is your Hawkwind Earth Visitors Passport application form.

Please fill it in and return to Mission Control, at PO Box 617, Newcastle Upon Tyne, NE15 7WA, together with two passport sized photographs, signed on the back and a 16cm x 11.5cm stamped addressed envelope.

The idea is for Hawkwind fans to have access to special Hawkwind events such as Hawkfest, obtain limited edition DVDs and CDs of exclusive material and to attend private Hawkwind parties.

Pass. No...........................................(Leave blank)

Volunteer Crew Register

Name...........................................................................................................................................................................

Please give details of your occupation/profession for inclusion in crew register and possible duty roster (optional)
......................................................................................................................................................................................................................
......................................................................................................................................................................................................................
......................................................................................................................................................................................................................

Full Earth Address: .............................................................................................................................................................
......................................................................................................................................................................................................................
......................................................................................................................................................................................................................

Post Code ........................................................................................................................................................................

E-Mail Address: (Please print clearly).................................................................................................................................

Telephone Number: ...............................................................................................................................................................

Additional info: .......................................................................................................................................................................
Martin Springett was born in Crayford, Kent, England, in 1947. He studied art (that is he learned to play the Guitar) for two semesters at the Brassey School of Art in Hastings, Sussex. He emigrated to the West Coast of Canada in 1965, but returned to the UK in 1973 to pursue music in various bands. He spent time in Germany, and toured through Europe.

While in London Martin started to illustrate and design record covers for Columbia records. Upon his return to Vancouver, Martin carried on with music and illustrated various books and magazines. In 1978 he moved to Toronto, maintaining activity in every area where illustration is required. He released his own album, "The Gardening Club", in 1983.

In 1984 Martin was commissioned to illustrate the cover of "The Summer Tree" by Guy Gavriel Kay. This and the subsequent volumes of The Fionavar Tapestry Trilogy were published around the world along with Martin's covers. Martin continued his work in fantasy illustration, illustrating many covers for fantasy novels, including "The Traveller In Black" by John Brunner. In 1990 he illustrated his first children's book, "Mei Ming and the Dragon's Daughter" written by Lydia Bailey. Martin has just finished illustrating his sixth children's book, called "The Follower" by Richard Thompson. He has been nominated for various awards, including the Governor Generals Award For Illustration. He has won the Aurora Award For Excellence in Fantasy Art, and two Silver Awards from the Art Directors Club of Toronto and Best Classical Record Cover of The Year Award (UK).

Martin still pursues the Musical Muse, recently producing a new CD, "Blue Evening" with his band "FREEFALL", an independent, instrumental album called "Rough Magic"; a collection of explorations on the guitar, and a collection of tunes inspired by the writings of Guy Gavriel Kay called "Bright Weaving".

www.martinspringett.com/

https://spacewreckrecords.bandcamp.com
UNDER HEAVEN

GUY GAVRIEL KAY

ILLUSTRATION BY MARTIN SPRINGETT

www.martinspringett.com  www.guygavrielkay.com
Rob Ayling writes:

"Thom the World poet is an old mate of mine from way back in my history. Even pre-dating Voiceprint, when I was running "Otter Songs" and Tom's poetry tapes and guest appearances with Daevd Allen, Gilli Smyth Mother Gong are well known and highly regarded. It just felt right to include a daily poem from Thom on our Gonzo blog and when I approached him to do so, he replied with in seconds!!! Thom is a great talent and just wants to spread poetry, light and positive energy across the globe. If we at Gonzo can help him do that - why not? why not indeed!!"

I HAVE WALKED WITH YOU
ON THESE SAME STREETS FOR PEACE
We came to your second wedding as a dance and a pilgrimage
For years, you opened the pages of your art to others to let Light in/to smooth down the covers
There is only goodwill as we unwind the years

   Both (if not all) fighting ancestral fears
   You see, long ago I learned to cry
   First from fear of violence, then for beauty’s eye

Now, when a line of song steals my heart and eyes
Tears come, unwanted but acknowledged as the Stranger’s Gift
There is only this life, and every moment sings
I may be wrong. Let me be wrong again.
In Victorian times every well-bred Gentleman had a 'Cabinet of Curiosities'; a collection of peculiar odds and sods, usually housed in a finely made cabinet with a glass door. These could include anything from Natural History specimens to historical artefacts.

There has always been something of the Victorian amateur naturalist about me, and I have a houseful of arcane objects; some completely worthless, others decidedly not, but all precious to me for the memories they hold.

But people send me lots of pictures of interesting, and, may I say, peculiar things. But once again this week it is over to my lovely wife...

A tale of one of my three cats and her journey to the vet the other day. All three of them were in their carriers on the back seat of the car when I looked in the rear-view mirror and saw Dotty climbing around, after somehow managing to squeeze out of the gated front of her carrier. The road is not one of those that has many places to stop, apart from the odd scattering of farmers' gated fields, so I pressed on for a bit further as we were nearly at our destination. But then she decided on slinking her way on my right towards the front of the car, and bellowing loudly in my ear, but luckily one such field appeared so I managed to stop, grab her and... place her back in her carrier and secured her tightly on the front passenger seat with the seat belt in case she tried her trick again. But she seemed pretty much relieved to get back into the carrier as she went in head first (and as any other cat carers out there know, you don’t just stick a cat head first into a cat carrier; backwards is the only way forward) and we continued on our merry way with me singing at the top of my voice to accompany the dodgy harmonies emitting from all of the cats. A trip to the vet for boosters and health checks with one cat is noisy enough, but with three it is positively deafening and somewhat excruciating on the ear drums.

And so, we got there, and they had their jabs, and off we went home without further mishap (apart from Lilith Tinkerbelle peeing on her bedding in the carrier on the way there – but then she is a very stressy cat so that was to be expected). As for Peanut – well he just howled while staring daggers at me – I know he was as I could feel his eyes boring into my back from behind me all the way there and all the way back.

I love cats. They are ace.

Fouke Industrial Aluminum Bass Lap Steel owned by Jeff Tweedy of Wilco Signed COA - US $1,500.00 (Approximately £1,048.44)

Comes with gig bag and certificate of authenticity signed by Jeff Tweedy.
Details:
Maker: Fouke Industrial Guitars
Model: Aluminum Bass Lap Steel
Finish: Silver Aluminum
Year: 2015
Includes: Gig bag and COA signed by Jeff Tweedy Condition: Excellent used condition.”

Is this desirable, or nice-looking? To me it looks like a gigantic tea spoon.

Pink Floyd 'Floating Floyd' Fiberglass Pig by Martin Davey for Gloucester Event - £1,000

“’This piggy has been on the streets of Gloucester for some months so the paintwork has been scuffed’ ” Floating-Floyd by Artist Martin
Unique painted fiberglass pig made in 2017 for Gloucestershire Old Spots Trail
Artist Martin Davey Biography Martin Davey has worked in commercial illustration and TV for several decades and also paints landscapes in oil or acrylic.
Floating-Floyd was Martin’s tribute to Pink Floyd’s iconic flying pig.

SHAMELESS SELF PROMOTION TIME

Just in case you are interested, here is yer beloved Editor at iTunes

Check it out now...
This artwork has been on the streets of Gloucester for some months and shows some ware. (My partner and I paint similar street artworks and would be happy to touch-up any faults and add an extra coat of protective varnish if required.) Ideal as a garden feature or inside your (spacious) home. Height approx 1 meter, weight approx 20kg. As you can see from the photos it will fit on a roof rack.

That would be an interesting sight to see on the way back from a frantic supermarket shop, or any trip really to be honest. Not quite as good as the coach and four that came up behind me once at some traffic lights in my old town of Stamford in Lincolnshire, when Middlemarch was being filmed, which was very peculiar to say the least.

Metal cast figure Elvis - £12.99

"For Sale Metal cast figure, The Legend of Rock and Roll The Man Himself Elvis Presley. Comes as a blank cast to paint yourself"

JERRY GARCIA - Brand New W/Tags (Winterland Shirt Co) Grateful Dead "VINTAGE" - US $1,500.00 (Approximately £1,048.44)

It would appear that the King is all shook up again.

JERRY GARCIA - Brand New W/Tags (Winterland Shirt Co) Grateful Dead "VINTAGE" - US $1,500.00 (Approximately £1,048.44)

"RARE VINTAGE JERRY GARCIA SHIRT WINTERLAND PRODUCTIONS SIZE: LARGE"
Stray into the woods and forests and you will enter into another world; a world of creatures that live by their own rules, protect their own kind with fierceness, and view all strangers who venture under the protective boughs with deep suspicion. Tread the forest floor with care, for this is also the home of the hairy man - the wildman of the woods. Is he a man? Is he a beast? Is he something in between? Whatever he is, he is spoken about by humans in hushed voices. They are scared of him and they tell tales of him to their children to scare them from entering the hushed darkness of the tree kingdoms. They call him many names; the woodwose, the wudawasa, the wodwos amongst them. The bane of a high-born daughter takes her unintentionally through such a forest on her last journey as a single woman to wed the man of her father's choice. Imposters from another land tramp through such a forest on a mission of their own, killing everything that comes across their path. The lives of some of the creatures that dwell in this place become unavoidably entwined with both these trespassers. The lives of some will change. Some will cease completely.
BRAND NEW UNWORN

This is pretty awesome if one is perfectly honest.

Elton John Ultra Rare Lord Kitcheners Carnaby Street London Shirt 1970 - £1,200.00

"Due to a future downsizing the time has come for me to sell 90% of my vast collection that has been put together the last 46 years. Its going to be a slow process over the next two years and will include some extremely rare items. Made by Lord Kitcheners the famous shop on Carnaby Street from the swinging 60's and 70's and used by the stars of the day. Do your own research on that comment. Looks to have been hardly worn and comes in a small size. The quality of this shirt is amazing. Not the very thin cotton type you see nowadays but a very heavy and thick cotton that has retained its shape again indication very little use.

I have never seen another of these shirts come on the open market and I very much doubt many if any, have survived the passage of nearly 50 years in such remarkable condition with no loss of detail to the decal which looks to be dyed on rather than an iron on hence there is no cracking or crazing to the image that you see on many really old shirts of this type.

There is a possibility that this shirt was exclusively made for Elton by the very well known Lord Kitcheners famous clothing boutique as the only time I have seen anything like this shirt is Elton wearing one very similar in nature in a publicity picture from the early 70's which is included in the pictures in the listing.

There is a LOT of information regarding a not particularly spectacular T-shirt, but for space reasons I have cut a lot out. You haven’t missed much though.

And that, as they say, is that for this week.

I shall see you all again next time.

Bye-bye for now.
“Ev’rywhere I hear the sound of marching charging feet, boy”

http://www.zazzle.co.uk/streetfightingshirts

Auld Man's Baccie

Resonating with the Blues
RICK WAKEMAN

COUNTRY AIRS

“Music from both the mind and heart...”

The original version – Now expanded with bonus material

www.rwcc.com
There are nine Henrys, purported to be the world’s first cloned cartoon character. They live in a strange lo-fi domestic surrealist world peopled by talking rock buns and elephants on wobbly stilts. They mooch around in their minimalist universe suffering from an existential crisis with some genetically modified humour thrown in. I think Peter McAdam is one of the funniest people around, and I cannot recommend his book The Nine Henrys highly enough. Check it out at Amazon. Each issue we shall be running a series of Henrybits that are not found in his book about the nine cloned cartoon characters who inhabit a surreal world nearly as insane as mine...
This book is an erudite catalogue of some of the most peculiar records ever made. The authors have lined up, described and put into context 500 "albums" in the expectation that those of you who can't help yourselves when it comes to finding and collecting music will benefit from these efforts in two ways.

- Firstly, you'll know you are not alone.
- Secondly, we hope that some of the work leads you to new discoveries, and makes your life slightly better as a result.

Each issue we are featuring one of these remarkable and peculiar records in a crass attempt to flog you the book.

What? Starkly beautiful break-up album.

Frame is best known as the singer/songwriter and mainstay of Aztec Camera, folky tinged indie-pop emperors from Glasgow. Several of his eighties hits like “Good Morning Britain” still see regular radio action. Camera’s die-hard fans knew there was a more personal and intimate side to Frame, songs like “Down the Dip” from the first album had hinted at this and Camera’s parting-shot, Frestonia (1995), had shown a maturity and complexity that made for repeated listening, if not hit singles.

However, nothing in his catalogue before or since, has approached the stark sound and sense of intimacy of Surf. Offering up the shortest running time of any Frame longplayer, Surf’s reliance on acoustic guitar, the recording in Frame’s front-room, and its repeated exploration of the intimacies of a recently failed relationship all make it feel longer than it is.

The title track with its lingering tender-affection for the love he has lost is – arguably – almost too honest. Elsewhere, the sense of a mind slowly turning over past events and coming to terms with loss is slightly easier to take, though reviews at the time suggested playing the collection back to back was a trying experience. Sonically there is little escape from limited tracks, acoustic guitar with overdubs and Frame’s frequently quiet and conversational vocals.

There are no big sounds or instantly hummable choruses here. But there is a coherent work that delivers a sense of focus and its own stark vision, similar in that regard to Bruce Springsteen’s raw emotion on Nebraska, but looking inward to the writer’s heart. Similar also to the self-examining of Bon Iver’s For Emma, Forever Ago – but more accessible with its lyrics and meanings.
Gregg Kofi Brown has transcended many genres of music...

Rock ‘n’ Roll and UFOs is an anthology of music from Gregg Kofi Brown’s career and contains previous unreleased songs, remixes and demos, with many guest musicians and artists such as Sting guitarist Dominic Miller, Bomb da Bass, Osibisa, the cast of the Who’s Tommy, The Chimes’ Pauline Henry, the Who’s former keyboard guru John Rabbit Bundrick and Seal guitarist Gus Issidore.

The CD is a companion to Gregg Kofi Brown’s autobiography of the same name which covers his early career in Los Angeles and London. From his first pro tour with Joe Cocker and Eric Burdon to close encounters of a third kind in a California desert and his adventures touring the world with African rock pioneers Osibisa. His journey includes starring in hit West end productions in London, recording and touring with infamous rock bands like Hanoi Rocks and the Members.

His first tour in Gambia and Senegal West Africa supporting African superstar Youssou N’Dour is well documented, as is his work in the African and West Indian music scene in the UK.

The last few years has seen Kofi perform with Damon Alban’s African Express and collaborate live with Amadou & Mariam featuring Beth Orton.

CD and book available soon from Gonzo Multimedia

www.gonzomultimedia.co.uk
Mark has a podcast: The Holsworthy Mark Show podbean. He says that it is a show “in which I talk about news myself, and do interviews. I sent it up as I found video a bit hard. I just hope people like and support and if anyone wants to be part of it or if come along for the ride they are welcome”.

PS shows can be downloaded

http://maraines88.podbean.com/
I JUST DON’T GET THE Manic Street Preachers, I never have. Way back in the day I was at a three day festival with Steve Harley. The festival was in Milton Keynes, and the MSP were there ponting about, and glowing in the light of the NME saying that they were the next best thing to the last best thing.

Whatshisname still had a bandage on his arm after his self inflicted “4 Real” wound that had caused the NME to go into euphoric bliss. I didn’t get them then, and I don’t get them now.

The other week they released their thirteenth album, named after a quote from one of the Hitchhiker’s Guide to the Galaxy books. And as I do each time they put out an album, I listened to it, earlier today, trying to see if I could finally get what they were all about.

And, as is so often the case, the opening bars of the first song pushed all the right buttons, but by the end of it I was bored, and that boredom and ennui increased with each successive song. The album - like their previous offerings - came over to me like an all you can eat buffet in one of the cheaper suburbs of Las Vegas. Shiny, bright colours, and an ephemeral tastiness that soon leaves you bloated and unsatisfied, whilst oddly still hungry.

Is it just me? Or are there other people around who share my view of this massively over-rated and rather tedious band?

Love and peace,

Jon
GET NAKED!

...with the
Pink Fairies

Andy Colquhoun, Duncan Sanderson,
Jaki Windmill, Russell Hunter and George Butler

THEIR FIRST NEW ALBUM IN THREE DECADES!

Also available from the Pink Fairies and friends:

PINK FAIRIES
Chinese Cowboys
Live 1987
HITM631CD

PINK FAIRIES
Mandies and Mescaline...
HITM632CD

WAYNE KRAMER
& THE PINK FAIRIES
Cocaine Blues
HITM633CD

ANDY COLQUHOUN
Pick up the Phone
Americal
HITM634CD

ANDY COLQUHOUN
String Theory
HITM635CD

WARSAW PAKT FRT.
ANDY COLQUHOUN
Warsaw Pakt
HITM636CD

NICK FRAPP AND
ANDY COLQUHOUN
Black Vinyl Dress
HITM637CD

THE DEVILANTS
Dr Crow
HITM638CD

THE DEVILANTS
The Devilants Have
Left the Planet
HITM639CD

THE DEVILANTS
Barbarian Princes
Live in Japan 1999
HITM640CD

All titles are available at: www.gonzomultimedia.co.uk
Weekly magazine: www.gonzoweekly.com
Daily blog: http://gonzo-multimedia.blogspot.co.uk